How to Choose the Best Formation and Tactics for Your Team

Another important aspect of FIFA Mobile is choosing the best formation and tactics for your team. The formation is the way your players are arranged on the field, while the tactics are the instructions you give to your players on how to play. You can choose from different formations and tactics in FIFA Mobile, such as 4-4-2, 4-3-3, 3-5-2, Attacking, Balanced, Defensive, etc. You can also customize your formation and tactics by going to Team > Edit Lineup > Formation & Tactics.

The best formation and tactics for your team depend on your play style, your team's strengths and weaknesses, and your opponent's strategy. For example, if you like to play aggressively and score a lot of goals, you might want to choose a formation with more attackers and a tactic with high pressure and fast build-up. On the other hand, if you like to play defensively and prevent goals, you might want to choose a formation with more defenders and a tactic with low pressure and slow build-up. You can also change your formation and tactics during a match by tapping on the Pause button and selecting Formation & Tactics.

How to Use Skill Moves, Passes, and Shots Effectively

One of the most fun and rewarding parts of FIFA Mobile is using skill moves, passes, and shots to outsmart and outplay your opponents. Skill moves are special moves that you can perform with your players to dribble past defenders, create space, or show off your flair. Passes are ways of moving the ball from one player to another, either on the ground or in the air. Shots are ways of kicking the ball towards the goal, either with power or finesse.

To use skill moves in FIFA Mobile, you need to tap on the Sprint & Skill button and swipe on the screen in different directions. For example, to do a roulette, swipe up; to do a rainbow flick, swipe down; to do a heel-to-heel flick, swipe left or right. You can also perform advanced skill moves by swiping twice or more on the screen. For example, to do a stepover followed by a roulette, swipe up then swipe up again; to do a fake shot followed by a rainbow flick, swipe down then swipe down again.

To use passes in FIFA Mobile, you need to tap on the Pass button and aim at a teammate or an empty space on the field. You can also perform different types of passes by tapping or holding the Pass button. For example, to do a short pass, tap once; to do a long pass, tap twice; to do a through pass, hold and release; to do a lobbed pass, hold longer and release.

To use shots in FIFA Mobile, you need to tap on the Shoot button and aim at the goal. You can also perform different types of shots by tapping or holding the Shoot button. For example, to do a low shot, tap once; to do a high shot, tap twice; to do a finesse shot, hold and release; to do a chip shot, hold longer and release.

To use skill moves, passes, and shots effectively in FIFA Mobile, you need to practice them and learn when and how to use them. For example, you might want to use skill moves when you are facing one or two defenders, but not when you are surrounded by many. You might want to use passes when you have an open teammate or space, but not when you have a clear chance to shoot. You might want to use shots when you are close to the goal or have a good angle, but not when you are far away or have a bad angle.

How to Defend, Tackle, and Intercept Opponents

Another essential skill in FIFA Mobile is defending, tackling, and intercepting opponents. Defending is the act of preventing your opponents from scoring goals by blocking their shots, passes, and movements. Tackling is the act of taking the ball away from your opponents by using your feet or body. Intercepting is the act of cutting off your opponents' passes or shots by positioning yourself in the right place.

To defend in FIFA Mobile, you need to tap on the Tackle button and aim at an opponent or an empty space on the field. You can also perform different types of tackles by tapping or holding the Tackle button. For example, to do a standing tackle, tap once; to do a sliding tackle, tap twice; to do a jockey tackle, hold and release; to do a push-pull tackle, hold longer and release.

To intercept in FIFA Mobile, you need to switch to the player who is closest to the ball or the opponent who has the ball by tapping on the Switch button or using the Auto-Switch option. You can also position yourself in the right place by using the virtual joystick or swiping on the screen. You can also use skill moves, passes, and shots to counter-attack your opponents after intercepting the ball.

To defend, tackle, and intercept effectively in FIFA Mobile, you need to be aware of your opponents' movements and intentions. You need to anticipate their next move and react accordingly. You also need to balance your aggression and caution. You don't want to be too aggressive and commit fouls or leave gaps in your defense. But you also don't want to be too cautious and let your opponents have too much time and space.
